Sea Baths Amid Tropical Sucroundings. The Largest Medical Practice on the Continent What the Doctor's Washington Patients Say About Him_A Reporter's Experience in Beston_Is Washington to Have a

A few days ago a Postreporter was called to Boston on tusiness. Now, Boston is said to be the Hub, an expression which, to the Bostonian, means the centre of the universe. One evening after dinner, while enjoying a friendly smoke at the Parke. House, we asked our friend, who was birying himself in the thickening clouds from the weed:

"Why is it that you Bostonians think the sun rises in East Boston and sets in the sub-urbs of Cambridge?"

He paused a moment; then facing about with a half-hidden smile, said: "Because that is the way it does." Then, taking

"I have lived in New York, Washington, San Francisco and spent two years to Paris. I know New York is immense; Washington is the capital of the country; San Francisco the City of the Golden Gate and Paris a city of great beauty, fashion and women; but when it comes to everything destrable in a most advanced and finished state, much in little, you will find such things in Boston as you do nowhere eise."

Yes; we replied that Boston has long enjoyed a great reputation for baked beans nd brown bread.

"Stop, Robert," he said. "Don't jest. I am serious in what I say, for what I say is true. I never cat beans or brown bread, so this claim we will not discuss, though I believe it is true. Candidly speaking, look at this city, with its great colleges, universities and seminaries. No city—no two cities and seinmaries. No city—no two cities—will compare with it. Is, it any wonder that it is known as the city of culture? Lock at our numerous and superior musical institutions, and especially our great New England Conservatory of Music, with its 5,000 pupils and 150 teachers. Nothing on this continent like it. Lock at our art and historical museums, our fine system of public schools and our Latin schools. Our gardens and parks will compare favorably with other great cities; also our churches and hotels.

"In Washington you will best us in and noters.

"In Washington you will beat us in streets, but in suburban beanties and suburban drives we excel any six cities of the urban drives we excel any six cities of the country."

Then, taking another puff, he said: "Look at our hospitals. You have nothing in Washington to compare with them."

"Hush about your hospitals," I said. "Don't mention them as among the credits of any city. I have been twice in public hospitals, and nearly lost my life esch time. I have had friends go there, suffering from some trivial trouble or slight injury, and after some unnecessary operation, killed and in a few days handed over to the undertaker. Don't mention hospitals to me. I have seen too much. I know too much. If the walls of these silent, licensed and indorsed prisons could speak, the nerve and fibre of the American people would grow cold and shiver with horror. And here, old friend, we are ahead of you in Washington, for we have now being built by Dr. Hammond of New York a kind of medical institute or private hospital, which promises to be far ahead of the ordinary hospitals."

Throwing his cigar away, and drawing stitute."

"It is not completed yet," I said, "but it premises to be a jewel for Washington when done. It is built of brick, with dark stone trimmings; two stories and a-half high, on the corner of two streets, with tine southern exposure. It will certainly be far ahead of the ordinary hospital, and many believe superior to the average health resort."

This last speech caused me to inquire of our friend, if his cigar had contained any intoxicating properties. At this he burst at nothing we hear or see in Boston.' "I said I was glad Dr. Hammond was building a health institute in Washington, for any improvement in the treatment of the sick interests my sympathies. The country doctor knows a very little about the treatment of chronic diseases, and if they understood such treatment, they have no facilities for treating them. Consequently, go into any neighborhood, in any part of the country you may, and you will find a large number afflicted with either cancer, consumption, paralysis, catarrh, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver, kidney, skin or nerve troubles, or some vicious chronic trouble. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of these poor chronic sufferers carry their maladies to their graves. A few go to the hospitals for treatment, but more are brought back dying or dead than come back improved. The only place where these chronic sufferers can get anything like half treatment, with any reasonable hope of cure, is at some good health resort or institute.

"There are not many such places in the country, and, though very much in advances of any-other methods of treatment, they are, in many respects, woefully imperfect.

"Well, what I was going to say was that we have, in the heart of the city of Boston, a new health palace, just being completed, which cellpass anything else of the kind in the world. Equal in beauty and grandeur to he treatment of chronic diseases, and it hey understood such treatment, they have known world is given by the most skillful, delicate and gentle hands." "See here," I said, "what do you take me for? What are you giving me? Do you forget that I am an old newspaper man, discounting fifty per cent, of all I hear and ace? And now, sir, if this is not a creation of your brain, show this health palace to me."

In a few moments we were driving rapidly along the historic Commons, the public gardens, and up Columbus avenue. Halting on the corner of Columbus avenue and Holyoke street, my friend said: "You can now get out."

Towering above us was a magnificent building, six stories high, of freestone, grantic and brick.

"This is the health palace," he said, "and, although it is late in the day, I guess we will be permitted to see through it."

We were met at the door by a liveried servant of the colored persunsion, who politely showed us into a large reception room, elegantly furnished, the walls and ceilings burnished with gold and silver, which harmonized well with the costly pictures on the wall.

The recention room was filled with page

The reception room was filled with patients waiting to see the doctors and sitting where we could see them coming and going from the different office rooms.

"See here," I said to my friend, "you have brought me to a place of fascinating beauty, of sumptuous parlors filled with men and women. You say they are patients. Still, they seem to be happy, wonderful happy. Tell me where I am. What is this place?"

Lot at this moment a young man, he informed my friend that he was ready to show us through the building.

"It is not quite finished," said the young gentleman, "but will be completed and open to the public in a few days."

I need not say that what I saw fairly dumfounded me and took my breath. I had had no idea that such a health establishment existed in the world or had ever evolved in the brain of a human being. Here I am in the midst of a palace; the palatial home for those who need treatment.

s you see in hospitale, and many of the health resorts, but a palatial hotel, second to rone in the country. On the roofs are sun baths and summer gardens. On the second floor, in addition to bed chambers, are private dining-rooms and parlors. On the first floor, large parlors, reception-rocms, conservatory of flowers, office, rocus, conservatory of flowers, office, dining-rocuss, restaurants, news stands, telegraph offices and reading-rooms, and in the rear of the building professional effects. This floor beggars description. It is richly furnished and set in jewels of the purest kind. It is very grand. Everything your eyes rest upon is artistic and superb. The wood carving of the enormous arches, columns and pillars are the finest we have ever seen, and suggest the old Moorish paleces of the Orient.

The building is lighted by electricity from rccs of the Orient.

The building is lighted by electricity from top to bettom, and in all rooms and halts are electric below. Over seventeen miles of electric wires run through the building. There are two large front stairways, three back stairways and two elevators. The house is heated by a new process, which changes the air in every room of the building every three minutes, making and keeping each room the temperature desired, and keeping the floor of each room warmer than the ceiling.

roc in the temperature desired, and keeping the floor of each room warmer than the ceiling.

In the large, deep half-basement is the both department, which is evidently the most claborate bath establishment in all the country. Here are long rows of Russian and Turkish bath rooms; electrical rooms, for all kinds of electrical treatment; hot and cold sea-bath rooms, sulphur bath rooms, medicated bath rooms, sulphur bath rooms, titing, reclining and sleeping; and here let me say that this entire bath department. Is fitted up in the same Oriental splendor and beauty as is the building itself. The plunge bath ar swimming pool, in the centre, of these baths, is worthy of special attention. If anything of the kind exists on this cearth I have never seen it or heard of it.

This magnificent swimming pool is filled with sea water, which comes through artesian wells from some subterrances ocean, which pours in a constant stream in and in a constant stream out. The decorations of the walls and ceilings of this plunge bath resemble the dazzling pictures of fairy land. On one side the speciacular view of the ocean, with its surging waves and ships arriving and departing. On the other side, mountains of venture and homes of beauty. Turn on the electric lights, and the sate is a tropleal one. Far in the East the moon is seen, and the stars shine from overhead. Seenlingly, various troplical creatures and animals appear, coming from their hiding places, while down yonder grotto, which looks almost a mile away, pours a Niagara of water, spurting amid the lilies and the flage.

Slowly we ascended to the office, hating to take the last view of this marvelous paror ma of beauty. Turning tomy friend, I said:

"Sir, I ask you for the last time, what palace of beauty and wonder is this."

palace of beauty and wonder is this ?"
He smiled and said: "Well, what do you say now to Boston being ahead?"
"Ahead," I said, "I'll give it up, that this is ahead of anything of the kind in the world. But you still fall to tell me what this is ahead of anything of the kind in the world. But you still fail to tell me what place it is."

"Well, I will tell you," he said. "It is the new health palace of Dr. R. C. Flower of this city,"

"Dr. R. C. Flower," I said. "Why, who has not heard of Dr. Flower? I know some of his patients in Washington, and I believe he occasionally visits our city."

"Yes," replied my friend, "everybody knows Dr. R. C. Flower. Personally, I have never had occasion to call in his services, but I have watched with a good deal of interest his practice increase, until it has become the greatest practice in the world. His cures are the most marvelous of this age. I think I can say, after a reasonably close acquaintance with many of his patients and his methods of treatment, that he does, absolutely and radically, cure cancer, tumor, consumption, paralysis, and nerve trouble in a most marvelous manner, the first two diseases without the use of the knife, and the others by modes of treatment different, more gentle and refined than anything I have ever known."

Unable to see the doctor myself, my friend made an engagement for me to meet him at 11 o'clock the following morning. Promptly at the hour I put in my appearance, but, to my surprise, I found numbers of patients waiting to see him. Some had come nearly 2,000 miles from the West, and two gentlemen from Galveston, Tex.

"hile waiting, I recognized, in passing in one of the halls, B. F. Gilbert of Washington, accompanied by a lady and gentleman. I was soon ushered into a private office. Dr. Flower entered a moment after, and, without waiting to be addressed, said:

"Well, sir, what can I do for you?"

I stated frankly that I had come to make some inquiries about his practice and the new health palace.

"I will have to turn you over to somebody else," he said. But before he could do so I said:

"Dr. Flower, tell me yourself something about this health home."

"Well, sir," he said, "it has been my desire for years to build a place different from any other place in the world. A place perfect in all things, like a larga, palatial home. Cheerful, beautiful and sunshiny; where every kind of treatment of any merit can be given skillfully, kindly and thoroughly. This is just what this health palace is. There is nothing in the world like it, and, as far as I know, has never been. But I seriously trust that we may soon have many such places in our country. If there is any cure on this earth for the sick they can find it here."

"Now, Doctor, about your practice. I understed your have man have matherits all over the names I obtained while in Boston. Here is what they say:

General W. G. Coffin, 706 Tenth street northwest, said: "I think Dr. Flower is the most wonderful doctor and man on the earth. One year ago I was almost dead with catarth, bronchial and kidney troubles. I had for years doctored with different physicians, but grew steadily worse. As a last resort I went to Dr. Flower, to my surprise he told me my troubles better than I could have told him, without asking any questions. I placed myself under his treatment, and in a few months was cured. I have known of his curing many who had been given up as incurable. One man with consumption, pronounced incurable and beyond all hope, was permanently cured in a few months. I was well acquainted with the case."

William T. Crump, 1420 Pierce Place, Washington, said: "For eight years I was a great sufferer with spinal trouble. I had doctored for seven consecutive years with the best physicians of the country; went to Europe and other places in search of health, but through it all grew worse and worse.

pain. In I went to see Dr. R. C. Flower. Imagine my surprise when he told my troubles and all about myself for years past without asking me a question. Well, I placed my self under Dr. Flower's treatment. That was some months ago. I began to improve at once. To-day I hardly know me, so great is my change. Dr. Flower took me off of morphine, and I have not had to use it since."

"Yes, sir; I had the honor of filling that position through the administrations of President Hayes and President Garfield."

but grew worse and worse. The discase kept esting away. My mother had died of cancer, Five in my family had died with the dread disease, and every one knew that I was the next victim marked for its covery and that I was in the hands of a master mind, who with ease read and controlled disease.

"I rapidly improved and in a few months was a well woman. I am to-day much healthier than the average woman of my years. Dr. Flower not only saved my life, but the life of many others that I know."

A most valuable and interesting work entitled "Health Papers," giving a description of Dr. Flower, his work, his methods of treatment, and health palace, will be sent free of charge to any one sending two stamps to the "Spectator Publishing Company," 417 Columbus avenue, Boston, Mass. This valuable work should be read by every invalid in the world.

We were informed by one of Dr. Flower's patients that be was negotiating for extensive properties in one of the suburbs of Washington, with a view of establishing a, health resort with a capacity for twelve hundred patients. If Dr. Flower could be induced to do such a thing for Washington, we would then go all the way to the Hub, to say to our Boston friend, that "Washington to shead." — [Washington Fest, February 16.

MR. TAULBEE'S REPORT.

Chairman Tenthee of the special commit

ter that investigated the school site pur-charts has submitted a minority report to the Honse. Mr. Tanlbee devotes a greatderl of space to show that the testimony has been changed and modified since it was teken. He claims that Mr. Cox's testimony hes under to come very material changes

Ile does ret agree with the conclusions of the majority, exonerating the Commis-sioners. But in the opinion of Mr. Taulber the questions to be determined are: Did the sioners. But in the opinion of Mr. Tanibee the questions to be determined are: Did the Commissioners exercise proper diligence and caution in the purchase of property for the District? Did they purchase the property as cheaply as they could have done by negotiation directly with the owners? and did they exercise reasonable and ordinary diligence in preventing a waste of money belonging to the District?

On there points he relieves that the testimony establishes beyond question the fact that in most of the cases in which Cox acted as intermediary the purchase could have been made from the owners of the property at the price which the District paid, less the profits resulting from the transaction by Cox; and while the Commissioners have not, in his opinion, profitted or attempted to reap any profit to themselves from any of these transactions, they unquestionably had an understanding with Mr. Cox, their warm personal friend, that he should, by these transactions, make an unusual and unreasonable profit.

He says that while the Commissioners have not been guilty of anything that would be considered criminal, their methods have been unwise and injudicious, and it sivers of a favoritiem, the result of which has cnabled these favored by them to realize extraordinary compensation for the work increasing the affairs of the District.

He recommends that Congress prohibit, by proper legislation, the repetition of these questionable methods of administering the affairs of the District, and to thus check the evident tendency to manage the public affairs of the District in the interest of private individuals and private interests.

The Bridge Safe. The assistant civil engineers of the Cin innati Southern Railway have examined the portions of the Cincinnati Southern Railway Bridge, heated by the Big Four fire yesterday, and have pronounced it uninjured. Traffic over it, however, will not be resumed until the arrival of Chief Engineer Nicholson, who will determine when it can be used. Locomotives passed over t frequently yesterday.

Toronto Curlers in a Rage. The Curling Club arrived at Toronto las vening to contest with the Caledonians o-day for the Davis cup. At Niagara Falls, Ont., the customs authorities palled them to give bonds for the amount of duty on their stones and detached handles. The curiers brought with them an illuminated address for presentation to Mr. Robert Davis, the donor of the cup, and on this they were charged $1.75 duty. Curling circles here are in a rage. Bit His Mother, Brooklyn, Ill., is all wrought up over two cases of hydrophobia. James Moran, a Thursday he was in convulsions, and while his mother was attending to him he sud-denly turned and bit her. Yesterday both mother and son were suffering with rables and it is thought neither can recover. What the Thunderer Thinks. The London Times, referring to the debate in the Canadian Parliament, says: "There is no occasion for Canadians to begin to calculate the profit and loss of their connection with England. The real cause of their troubles is certainly not indifference to Canadian interests on the part of England. The cause will be found in well known extgencies of the Presidential election in the United States." Powderly on Labor-Saving Machines

Mr. T. V. Powderly addressed about 2,500 people in Cincinnati last night on the history of the Knights of Labor, and the growth and development of the order, and growth and development of the order, and of its present prosperity. After delivering a biting philippic against Barry as a pretender and a sore head, he spoke of labor-saving machinery. He said it was not labor-saving, but wealth-producing machinery; and that the great problem of the future for workingmen was how to so adjust themselves to the new order of things as to reap their full share of the benefits of it.

Helpert Garrett Again Bational.

Robert Garrett Again Rational. Mr. Garrett was quite rational yesterday and dined at the Miller mansion with Dr. Johnson of Baltimore, who is an intimate friend. Mr. Garrett seems to be improving rapidly. A Visitation of Fire. Onlens' saw factory at Columbus burned saws on hand, and the loss is considered almost complete. The stock was valued at $160,000 and the building at $11,000. The columbus steam carpet beating establishment was also burned, with a loss of $2,000.

A contemporary suggests that a procesion of the "original Harrison men" be nade a feature of the Inauguration day eremonies. This might be interesting, but it wouldn't be fair. The original Harrison men are so numerous that if all of them should attempt to parade at once there would be no room for anybody else in the procession. They have had glory enough, and ought to be willing to stand back and give the soldiers a chance.—[Pittsburg Disnatch Soden Mineral Pastilles are prescribed diseases of the lungs and cheef, consumption and asthmat. The benefit derived from their use is unexcelled, and even in chronic cases their action is alleviating, quieting and stimulating. Soden Mineral Pastilles deserve the prefilar preparations, because they are a natural remedy, an our adulterated product of the springs, containing without deterioration the sanative qualities of the natural springs. Soden Mineral Pastilles are most advan-piled in Whooping Couch and Diphtheria; in the former they decrease the force of the purcyrism, while proventing the piled in Whooping Cough and Diphtheria; in the form decrease the force of the paroxyism, while preventi-latter, as the disease cannot take hold in a throat fr Soden Mineral Pastilles here introduced in the United States, and can be had at all Aprifees Drug Stores at 5D cents a box. In Germany, Aus. Swifterland their sales in one year amounted to than two million boxes. Soden Mineral Pastilles were investiga-brated English throat specialist. IIr. Merrell Machenzie, and arone many others he writes the following, based upon his brated English throat specialist, Ur. Morrell ! among many others he writes the following, studies of the Soden Springs and their product

SIR MORRELL MACKENZIE writes: "I have watched the effects of the Soden Waters for a considerable period and regard them as extremely valuable in obstinate catarrhal affections of the throat. The small amount of iron which they contain readers them very useful in the stages of Throat Consumption, and they do good in nearly all cases of relaxation of the nucous membrane.

The Pastilles offer a most convenient method of using the waters; producing both a local and general effect. They are especially beneficial in catarrhal diseases of the air passages; I have frequently found them of great service in the case of Singers and Public Speakers.

Singed, MORRELL MACKENZIE, M. D., Lendon, late Physician to the London Hospital, Consulting Physician to the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat, Golden Square, and Physician to the Royal Society of Musicians, 2d September, 1887."

Soden Mineral Pastilles are doubly valuable, inasmuch as they produce simultaneously the most favorable effect upon the organs of digestion. In Catarrh of the stomach, hemorrhoids and habitual constitution they cause the healing and restoration of the diseased organs by reason of their exceedingly mild action.
